

News & Insights

The O'Melveny team has a deep collective understanding of the prevailing forces affecting a large array of industry segments. To help clients anticipate challenges and spot opportunities, we regularly provide incisive analysis on emerging legal and business issues. Along with our own alerts, publications, and authored articles, prominent news media frequently consult our lawyers as they report on trends, tapping their experience and insights. From videos to podcasts to webinars, our practitioners also appear in various other forums as subject-matter authorities in a range of areas. Below, we invite you to explore these resources, along with the latest O'Melveny news covering developments in our client services and successes, team and talent, and culture and values.
