Steve Olson serves as the firmwide Co-Chair of the White Collar Defense and Corporate Investigations Practice.

As a former federal fraud prosecutor at the US Attorney's Office in Los Angeles, Steve regularly represents companies, boards of directors and executives in criminal and civil matters against government enforcement agencies. He also advises companies and independent directors in connection with complex and sensitive internal investigations. Steve has extensive jury trial experience both at the government and in private practice.

Steve has been recognized by Chambers USA and Legal 500 as a leading lawyer in the area of White-Collar Criminal Defense. The 2019 edition of Chambers USA quotes a client who describes Steve as "a top-flight investigations and trial attorney." Another source notes that "He has extraordinary common sense and is immensely liked by everyone. He's very connected, very results-oriented, and delivers with extraordinary speed." Previous editions of Chambers have quoted clients describing Steve as "smart" and "talented" and note that "he really has a very, very good touch in terms of negotiations" and "can make on-the-spot calls which inevitably turn out to be right and he has a sixth sense when it comes to governmental agencies." Steve has also repeatedly been recognized as among the "Most Influential People in Los Angeles" by The Los Angeles Business Journal.

Experience

- Represented the Audit Committee of Mattel's Board of Directors in an internal investigation into allegations by an anonymous whistleblower of an accounting error that resulted in a misstatement of the toy maker's income tax accounting in the last two quarters of 2017. The whistleblower also raised questions about the independence of the company's outside auditor. As part of the investigation, O'Melveny reviewed the company's accounting and reporting procedures
- Defending one of the largest global automakers in three-year federal criminal grand jury and NHTSA investigations
- Represented the Board of CenturyLink in conducting a large-scale internal investigation of consumer sales and billing practices and allegations of sales of unwanted services following whistleblower and regulatory, consumer and shareholder litigation
- Representing the Board of Trustees of the University of Southern California in multiple high profile investigations and corporate governance issues, including conducting an internal investigation into the conduct of USC gynecologist, Dr. George Tyndall, and concerns regarding reporting issues at the University
- Defending ExxonMobil in federal, state and local agency investigations following an incident concerning its downstream activities in California
- Represented the Regents of the University of California in an investigation into alleged sexual misconduct in the clinical setting at UCLA. The engagement included reviewing the university's policies and procedures for preventing, identifying, and responding to complaints of sexual harassment or misconduct in its health centers, clinics, and hospitals, which together make up one of the world's largest healthcare systems. Issued a public written report outlining our findings and providing recommendations
- Defended JPMorgan Chase in unfair competition and Fair Housing Act cases brought by Los Angeles City Attorney
- Defended Bumble Bee Foods in criminal antitrust investigation and prosecution
- Defending Wall Street bank in FINRA arbitration
- Represented independent directors of O'Reilly Autoparts (formerly CSK Auto) during a sensitive internal investigation regarding allegations of widespread accounting fraud. Represented directors in subsequent SEC and DOJ cases
