The Deal Covers Rimon's Arrival at O'Melveny

January 18, 2018

The January 18, 2018, edition of The Deal reported that former general counsel for the Office of the Inspector General at the US Department of Homeland Security Laurel Loomis Rimon joined O'Melveny as senior counsel in the White Collar Defense and Corporate Investigations and Fintech practices.

"Rimon will counsel clients on anti-money laundering and fintech enforcement issues," The Deal's Movers & Shakers column noted.

A Former General Counsel for the Office of the Inspector General at the US Department of Homeland Security, Rimon's practice is backed by decades of high-level government experience and offers clients a seasoned investigator's perspective.
