O'Melveny has reelected Bradley Butwin as chair of the firm for a third term, this article reported. His reappointment comes well ahead of the scheduled date for his third term to begin in February 2021 and signals an endorsement of his leadership, Global Legal Post reported.

Pamela Miller, lead director of the firm's policy committee and member of the firm's management team, said: "Our partners have expressed their utmost confidence in Brad's leadership. Under his steady leadership, O'Melveny has expanded our range of client services and enhanced our reputation in the marketplace."

Butwin added: "While the global economy remains challenged, we look forward to helping our clients forge ahead toward a promising future. The cornerstone of our success has been our focus on building and growing enduring, meaningful relationships with our clients through both prosperous and difficult times."
