McKeen to Speak at Class Action Litigation Conference

April 29-30, 2009

O'Melveny counsel Elizabeth Lemond McKeen will be speaking at Bridgeport Continuing Education's Eighth Annual Class Action Litigation Conference, to be held April 29-30 at the Westin Bonaventure Hotel in downtown Los Angeles. This two-day seminar will cover the latest developments in the law of federal class actions and California class actions, as well as procedural advice from leaders in the field. The conference is designed to give both practicing attorneys and in-house counsel an in-depth knowledge of each step in the process of litigating class actions, with an emphasis on the procedural rules and practice.

McKeen will be discussing pre-certification motion practice and related topics in a panel presentation, which will take place Wednesday, April 29th at 1:15 pm PST.
