Overview

O'Melveny works with entrepreneurs and investors to support the emergence of innovative companies. We provide strategic guidance along every step of the growth cycle—helping to build businesses around novel ideas, raise capital, protect critical technology and talent, and navigate the path to success.

We are more than lawyers to our clients, often serving as trusted advisors in the C-suite and boardroom, making timely introductions to investors and executive and technical talent, and forging valuable connections within the technology and business community on behalf of our clients.

The success of our clients speaks for itself: over the last three years, we have ushered more than 75 venture-backed companies to liquidity via sale or initial public offering, and we boast an 11-year streak of closing venture and private equity financings at a one-per-day pace.

Our value proposition for emerging companies is our ability to deliver
