

In the News

The New York Times Touts O'Melveny's Programs for New Parents

July 22, 2016

An article in the July 22, 2016, issue of The New York Times cited O'Melveny's parental coaching program. The article, "Why Companies Have Started To Coach New Parents," noted that the firm is among a growing number of employers who offer support to new parents, along with companies like Etsy and Morgan Stanley.

The firm's efforts to help employees balance their professional and family lives have also recently drawn recognition for O'Melveny as one of Working Mother and Flex-Time Lawyers' Best Law Firms for Women, Yale Law Women's Top Ten Family Friendly Firms, and Euromoney's Best International Firm for Women, Gender Diversity, and Work-Life Balance.