FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NEW YORK—January 6, 2020—Capping a remarkable period of groundbreaking results for clients, O'Melveny has been ranked second in the nation in The American Lawyer's Litigation Department of the Year competition.

Noting the firm's top-notch performance in matters "ripped from the headlines," AmLaw designated O'Melveny "runner-up" for the firm's impressive litigation track record over the past two years. O'Melveny was also honored at the regional level, taking the Number 1 spot as AmLaw's California Litigation Department of the Year.

O'Melveny is one of only two firms to have won, or been a runner-up, finalist, or honorable mention recipient in every American Lawyer "Litigation Department of the Year" contest since the awards began in 2002.

"Opponents know they're not bluffing—O'Melveny lawyers have repeatedly been tapped when clients are willing to go the distance in court," AmLaw observed in its profile of the firm, adding: "Litigation is at O'Melveny's core."

The publication hailed O'Melveny for its results in a number of high-profile matters, including the firm's representation of both Time Warner and AT&T in defeating the Justice Department's attempt to block the companies' merger, a showdown widely described as "the antitrust trial of the century."

O'Melveny guided Johnson & Johnson to trial in Oklahoma over its opioid products after other drug makers settled with the state. A judgment against the company amounted to only 2.6 percent of the US$17.7 billion Oklahoma had sought, a verdict now under appeal. O'Melveny represents J&J nationwide in some 2,000 opioid-related lawsuits.

The article highlighted O'Melveny's representation of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico in its US$100 billion bankruptcy and reorganization, an effort that began with the vital task of ensuring that elected representatives actually had a seat at the table with the island's creditors.

O'Melveny also prevailed in a closely watched water-rights case on behalf of a Southern California water district. Access for tens of millions of people to Colorado River water rested on the outcome of the case and the precedent it would establish.

And the firm advised Samsung during a government investigation and class-action lawsuit over alleged price-fixing that sought US$3 billion in damages. While Samsung's co-defendants opted to settle, O'Melveny scored a summary judgment victory for Samsung on the eve of trial and obtained favorable settlement terms, while convincing the government to close its investigation without charging the company.

"We are honored to be named runner-up in The American Lawyer's Litigation Department of the Year contest," said O'Melveny chair Bradley J. Butwin. "Our strong showing is a result of the dedication, skill, teamwork, and professionalism of our entire litigation team, led by our co-chairs Richard Goetz and Randy Oppenheimer."
