O'Melveny partners Steven Bunnell and David Levis were quoted in this article about a DC City Council hearing on the investigation O'Melveny conducted into possible ethical violations by council member Jack Evans.

O'Melveny's investigative report found Jack Evans had violated the conflict of interest provision of the council code of conduct at least 11 times amongst other violations. "It doesn't matter whether you are willfully violating the conflict of interest provision or whether you don't pay attention and violate it," Bunnell testified at the hearing.
