O'Melveny & Myers' partner Timothy Clark was quoted in Law360's "Macquarie, BlackRock Woo Investors With Infrastructure Funds." The article discusses two European infrastructure debt platforms that the companies recently launched and how that is playing in to the larger trend. "We're seeing a huge wall of cash being thrown at infrastructure assets, up and down the capital structure and all over the map," said Clark, who advised Industry Funds Management Pty. Ltd. on its mandate with the California State Teachers' Retirement System, according to the article. "Over the past six months, we've been getting a lot more calls on this."
