Jeffery Norton has returned to former longtime firm O'Melveny as a partner in the firm's Corporate Finance department, Bloomberg Law reported.

"I'm getting back to my roots," Norton said. "I grew up at O'Melveny. This is the place that trained me to be the lawyer I am and to have that opportunity to help these guys with their rapid expansion of the finance practice is honestly just the perfect fit for me."

Norton focuses his practice on public and private finance matters, with particular emphasis on domestic and cross-border corporate and acquisition financing including leveraged credits and high yield bonds. His experience includes advising financial institutions, financial sponsors, private credit funds and corporates on a variety of finance matters in the US, Europe, Asia and Latin America.
