The New York Law Journal reported that corporate finance partner Jeffery Norton has returned to O'Melveny, where he began his career.

“Norton’s practice focuses on public and private finance, with an emphasis on leveraged credits and bonds, according to his LinkedIn page, and includes representation of private equity firms, financial institutions and direct lenders, among others,” the publication wrote. “He also focuses on clients in the telecommunications and media industries, according to an announcement of his hire.”

The NYLJ also noted that Norton is the second corporate finance partner to join O'Melveny recently; the firm hired aviation finance partner Jason Kaplan in mid-October.
