O'Melveny Emerging Technologies Group Chair David Makarechian is quoted in this article on TheStreet, which discusses COVID-19's effect on the IPO market. Market volatility and uncertainty in the global economy are slowing dealmaking, Makarechian observed.

"Companies that are on the IPO track, or at some stage of that track, are certainly spooked," he told TheStreet. "The general wisdom is that volatility is very detrimental to the IPO market."
