O'Melveny & Myers LLP's partner Junaid Chida wrote an article for the December 12, 2012, edition of Corporate Counsel, on "6 Ways the Sustainability Movement Will Affect Your Company." The article discusses how the green movement is driving businesses to make changes to their corporate policies based on consumer preferences. Chida details several ways the demand for sustainable practices will manifest in business, including: consumer choice, supply chain activities, shareholder demands, and socially responsible investing, among others.
